

UNT

G. BRINT RYAN COLLEGE OF BUSINESS
Supply Chain Management

monthly digest

DRIVING WHAT'S NEXT FOR UNT UPDATED STRATEGIC PLAN

With the creation of the UNT Better Look North Strategic Plan, we took a fresh look at our strategic plan centered on: Develop, Discover, and Drive.

Our priorities are clear:

- Develop career-ready students and industry-responsive programs.
- Discover new knowledge through impactful research and doctoral education.
- Drive meaningful partnerships, engagement, and measurable impact across industry and the community.

This updated framework strengthens our alignment with the College and University while advancing student success, research excellence, and industry impact through career-ready education, impactful scholarship, and meaningful partnerships.

STUDENTS ELEVATE PROGRAM VISIBILITY LEARNING BEYOND THE CLASSROOM

Undergraduate students represented UNT-SCM at the Intermodal Association of North America EXPO 2026 in Long Beach and the International Compliance Professionals Association Global Trade Pathways Conference in Grapevine through case competitions, professional panels, and industry networking.

SWINGING FOR SCHOLARSHIPS ISM GOLF TOURNAMENT

Jenny Garcia and Chris White represented us on the links at the 30th Annual Roy L. Anderson Memorial Golf Tournament sponsored by the Institute for Supply Management DFW Chapter. This event honors our ISM scholarship recipients and raises funding for future recipients.

A BREAKTHROUGH FALL UNDERGRADUATE GROWTH LEADS THE WAY

This Fall, we had one of our best semesters for enrollment in program history with our undergraduate enrollment up 2.4%.

@UNTSCM

SPOTLIGHT: ALAN MACKELPRANG

Alan Mackelprang joined us this Fall as a professor and the G. Brint Ryan Endowed Chair of Logistics and Supply Chain Management, recognized for influential research in supply chain integration, resilience, and operations management. The endowed chair is a prestigious, donor-funded position supporting leadership, research excellence, and industry engagement within the G. Brint Ryan College of Business.