The M.B.A. in Business Management is an intensive 11-month, full-time, cohort-style degree program. Accepted students will be taught by the College of Business’ leading faculty and receive extensive industry experience working on real business situations. Strongly anchored in industry based experiential learning, the program is designed to develop and nurture future managers and business leaders who are change agents, and create value for their organization by integrating diverse resources, knowledge and capabilities.

Admission to the M.B.A. in Business Management is competitive. Applicants with a GPA of 3.50 or greater at UNT will receive a waiver of the GMAT/GRE, which is typically required of all M.B.A. applicants (with a minimum GPA of 3.00). All applicants will be interviewed before final admission offers are made. Admitted students will be attending classes daily (day-time) and attend multiple industry visits throughout the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex each term. The program begins during Summer II and ends in the following Spring term.

CAREER POSSIBILITIES
Graduates from the Business Management program will be prepared for any career that requires general management skills, capabilities and mind set. Job responsibilities at senior levels (aspirational goals) could include CEO, General Manager or Manager of a strategic business unit, Entrepreneur, Policy Advisor or Consultant. These positions, and other like them, require executives to identify and integrate resources to create value for internal and external stakeholders. Graduates moving into entry level positions will require the same capabilities, with perhaps a narrower focus, such as manager of a purchasing team, retail unit, and smaller business units.
